REPORT

As part of the institution's strong commitment to social responsibility and community engagement, the students of III Semester BCA A batch of Naipunnya Institute of Management and Information Technology organized a meaningful Outreach Activity at St Antony's Special School, Olivemount on 29 September 2025. The primary objective of this initiative was to extend care, joy, and emotional support to children with special needs while simultaneously nurturing values such as empathy, compassion, and social awareness among the students.

The outreach programme was carefully planned and executed by the students, who collectively contributed a small amount of money to support the well-being of the inmates of the institution. This contribution reflected the students' willingness to share resources and take responsibility beyond the classroom. The visit provided an opportunity for the students to understand the realities of differently-abled children and appreciate the dedicated efforts of organizations working towards their care and development.

During the visit, the students actively engaged with the children through a variety of interactive and recreational activities. Fun games were organized to encourage participation, laughter, and physical movement, creating a cheerful and lively atmosphere. Storytelling sessions were conducted to stimulate imagination and emotional connection, while music sessions added joy and relaxation to the environment. These activities were thoughtfully designed to ensure inclusiveness and to cater to the abilities and interests of the children, making the interactions meaningful and enjoyable.

As part of the outreach, the students also visited the classrooms of St Antony's Special School, where they observed the teaching-learning methods adopted for children with special needs. This exposure helped students gain insight into special education practices and the patience and dedication required in this field. The students were also taken to the physiotherapy room, where they learned about the therapeutic interventions provided to improve the physical well-being and mobility of the children. This experience enhanced their understanding of holistic care and rehabilitation practices.

In addition to interactive sessions, the students distributed fruits to the inmates as a gesture of care and support for their health and nutrition. This simple act reinforced the importance of small contributions in making a positive difference in the lives of others.

The outreach activity proved to be a memorable and enriching experience for both the students and the inmates. For the children, the visit brought moments of happiness, interaction, and companionship. For the students, it served as a powerful learning experience that went beyond academics, instilling values of kindness, social responsibility, and community service. Overall, the programme successfully strengthened the bond between the institution and the community, reaffirming Naipunnya Institute's commitment to holistic education and societal well-being.
