Peer teaching is an effective educational strategy for classrooms of diverse learners because it promotes academic gains as well as social enhancement. Programs can be successfully implemented at the classroom-level. For students, peer learning can lead to improved attitudes and a more personalized, engaging, and collaborative learning experience, all of which can lead to higher achievement. For peer teachers, the experience can deepen their understanding of the subject and impart confidence. Peer learning was effective in increasing the students' clinical skills and student roles as teachers led to a combination of attitudes, skills and knowledge in educators and learners
