Report

Peer learning is an education method that helps students solidify their knowledge by teaching each other. One student tutoring another in a supervised environment can result in better learning and retention. Peer learning fosters teamwork, cooperation, patience, and better social skills. In a cooperative peer learning environment, each student's strengths can serve to complement the group and enhance learning. That is, becoming skilled at working with and learning from one's peers begins at a young age in the classroom. When they learn with their peers, they can see new processes for answering questions and come up with creative, collaborative solutions. Importantly, they will carry these new perspectives as well as a willingness to seek and accept feedbacks which may help them in their progress in education.

Peer learning fosters diversity and depth in a student's knowledge and opinions. Learning from peers of different backgrounds, views, and ethnicities fosters an environment of mutual respect, gratitude, and progress. This adds the richness to the learning environment by supporting diversity through peer learning which is a part of culturally responsive teaching.

Department of English has a practice of organizing Peer teaching sessions for the students of M.A English Language and Literature. Peer teaching was arranged for the V Semester B.A English Literature students as a part of their curriculum. The session was conducted on 7th September in V semester B.A English Class. This was organized to enhance the ability of teaching amidst the students.

Ms. Simna Mary Manoj K., a student of I M.A English Language and Literature, was allotted with the topic, "The Country without a Post office". She was given a training session prior to take class. Her class session was monitored by Dr. Purnima S Kumar, the Head of the Department English. She was given corrective suggestions at the end of the session. One could see that the students took class with confidence and good preparation. A feedback was collected from the students after the session.
