Circular

As we dive into the month packed with exams, the training department is here to help you make November the best month for study success with the habit "Study Smarter Not Harder". We are focused on creating effective, stress-free study routines that can power you through each exam and beyond. Together, let's make November a month of smart study, strong habits, and exam success. Let's pop into the good habits and ace the exams.

REPORT

In November, the training department introduced the “Study Smarter, Not Harder” habit to promote effective study techniques among students of NIMIT. As we entered November, a month filled with exams, the training department was there to support students in making it their most successful month of studying by building good habits. We focused on creating effective, stress-free study routines that can power students through each exam and beyond. The best performers were identified from every department for their outstanding application of these methods, demonstrating improved outcomes and inspiring their peers. This initiative successfully instilled smarter learning habits, with plans to expand and integrate it further development programs. The following students were acknowledged for practicing the habit:
