REPORT ON WORKSHOP ON RESEARCH FOR PG STUDENTS

The Workshop on Research for postgraduate students at NIMIT took place on September 11, 2024, Wednesday, in the First M. Com Classroom. The session was graciously led by Rev. Fr. Antony Jose, the Director of the Centre for Research, who is known for his expertise and experience in guiding academic research. The central theme of the workshop was the engaging topic, "What? Why? How?", designed to guide students through the essential elements of research—its purpose, significance, and practical approach.

The session focused on helping M. Com and MA students understand the fundamentals of research, including formulating research questions, the importance of choosing the right methodology, and how to structure their work effectively. Fr. Antony Jose provided real-life examples and shared his insights on the challenges and rewards of the research journey, making the topic accessible and relevant to the students' academic growth.

Students were encouraged to engage actively through discussions and Q&A sessions, which not only helped clarify their doubts but also inspired them to think critically about their own research endeavors. The workshop aimed to equip students with the necessary tools and mindset to approach their academic projects with confidence and clarity, laying the foundation for successful research careers.
