REPORT

The Department of Social Work students organized a community program titled “SAMATHA 2024” at Kokkunoor, Mookkannoor on Saturday, 30th November 2024, from 10:40 a.m. to 11:40 a.m. This marked their first initiative in the area, with the primary objective of educating local women about their legal rights and the laws that protect them. Advocate Rabil P. Riyas was invited as the resource person to lead the session. His insightful class covered key aspects of women's legal rights in a clear and engaging manner.

The session was interactive, encouraging participants to ask questions and share their experiences. The advocate responded effectively, ensuring that complex legal information was made accessible and understandable to all. The program saw active participation, with 20 women and 10 children attending. The presence of Ward Member Ms. Sini Mamachan added value to the event and emphasized the importance of community participation in such initiatives. In addition to the legal awareness session, the program featured group discussions, experience sharing, and interactive communication. These activities helped build trust, promote dialogue, and foster social bonding among the participants.

To conclude the session, snacks and tea were served, creating a warm and welcoming atmosphere for further interaction. The event not only enhanced awareness but also strengthened community ties, encouraging residents to actively engage in future community-building efforts. The program successfully promoted legal literacy, improved social interaction, and contributed to the overall well-being of the participants. “SAMATHA 2024” stands as a model for grassroots-level legal education and empowerment.
