REPORT

Following the successful orientation session, the NSS volunteers of Naipunnya College carried out a Digital Literacy Survey on 10 August 2024 across various wards of Angamaly Municipality. The survey was part of the Digi-Keralam initiative and aimed to assess the community's familiarity with digital services, identify digital literacy gaps, and understand the specific needs of different demographic groups.

Equipped with the training received earlier, volunteers visited households and interacted with residents from all age groups. They gathered information on the usage of smartphones, familiarity with e-governance portals, online banking, UPI payment systems, and digital health services. During the survey, many elderly residents showed keen interest in learning how to use smartphones for essential tasks like paying bills, accessing government schemes, and booking appointments online.

Volunteers not only collected data but also educated residents about the advantages of adopting digital services in daily life. Their friendly approach and patient explanations encouraged more people to embrace digital tools.

The data collected through the survey will play a crucial role in designing targeted digital awareness programmes for the community. This initiative marked an important step towards bridging the digital divide and promoting inclusive digital growth, reflecting the NSS's dedication to community development and empowerment through education.
