REPORT

Training for Final Year UG

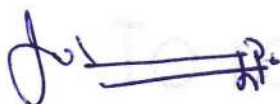

The Training Department organized a series of training programs for all final-year undergraduate students in separate batches under the inspiring theme “Empower, Inspire, Transform: Personality Grooming and Placement Training.”

The objective of this initiative was to equip students with the confidence, competence, and clarity required to successfully transition from campus to the professional world. Through this program, students were empowered to recognize their strengths, refine their communication and interpersonal skills, and develop a professional attitude essential for career success.

The sessions also aimed to inspire students to cultivate a positive mindset, resilience, and a sense of purpose as they prepare to face the challenges and opportunities of the job market. Ultimately, the training sought to transform participants into well-groomed, industry-ready individuals capable of presenting themselves effectively in interviews and thriving in professional environments.

The sessions were led by Dr. T. O. Poulse, whose insightful guidance and practical approach provided students with valuable perspectives on personality development and employability skills.
